

Labbe, Murray vie for SC presidency

Labbe stresses three problems

Emil J. Labbe, a junior history and philosophy major from Dover, N. H., is a candidate for president of the Student Council.

Recipient of many honors while in high school, Labbe has also been active in many activities at St. Joe. He is junior class treasurer, a member of Delta Epsilon Sigma, a two-year member of the Council academic committee, and a member of the Courier club.

Labbe is a candidate because he feels he has four qualifications needed by a Student Council president: experience, understanding of student problems, time to do the job, and interest and determination.

In his platform he envisions

problems in three main areas. They are:

1). The new Student union now being built. Labbe feels that the building should be used primarily for student activities, that higher union fees should bring more facilities, and that larger facilities should make possible a unified Homecoming, better dances and mixers, etc.

2). Student Council finances. The candidate feels that since a large portion of the funds are earmarked for regular events such as movies, mixers, dances and jazz concerts, careful planning is needed to make best use of available funds. He hopes to take polls to determine student entertainment preferences.

3). Student discipline. Labbe feels the Council disciplinary committee should be under someone other than the president, because this activity does not leave enough time for the president's other duties and it gives the student the impression the president is not working for them.

Labbe's platform also includes proposals to utilize parents and alumni groups, etc., and ideas for future planning. He feels that the Council must think not only of the present but of the future, and that his campaign is essentially realistic — impossible promises being absent.

Retreat

Campus retreats for this year will end this weekend. Freshmen and all others who have not yet made their retreats are to attend.

Fr. William H. McEvoy, S.J., of Marquette University, has been in charge of this year's retreats.

The freshmen retreat will begin at 7:30 Friday evening.

SC elections, run-offs to be held April 12, 13 in rec hall, cafeteria

The annual spring mania of Student Council election campaigns began last week. So far ten candidates have committed themselves to the untold hours of platform writing, poster drawing and hall visiting.

Two candidates, juniors Emil Labbe and Joe Murray, have declared for the office of president. Three, Bill Dore, a sophomore, and Jim Bishop and Mitch Kaminski, juniors, have thrown their respective hats in the vice-presidential ring, and three more, John Cates and Frank Harmon, sophomores, and Dave Stark, a junior, are in the running for the secretarial position. Juniors Len Bara and Bill Thoma are the candidates for treasurer.

Two changes in the election committee rules were made Tuesday at a closed meeting of the Student Council. The first was in section A of Article II concerning candidacy. It previously read: "Only students not on academic or disciplinary probation may run for any office." Now a student on academic probation may run if he has a cumulative index of 2.00 (freshmen must have a 1.50 cumulative index) and has his petition signed by the academic dean, the registrar, the dean of men, and his counselor.

The second change was in the second clause of section A of Article IV concerning runoffs. Previously, in a second ballot, the field was limited to the top three candidates for each office as determined by the first ballot. Now, if there are only three candidates running for an office, the second ballot will be limited to the top two candidates.

Student Council elections will take place April 12 from noon to 5 p.m. in the recreation hall and from 5:15 to 6:15 in the cafeteria. Ballots will be counted immediately after supper in the science building. If a second ballot is necessary for any office, the runoffs will occur the following day, April 13, at the same times in the same places.

New officers will be installed at the last meeting in April.

The election committee is composed of the vice-presidents of the four classes: Paul Corsaro, freshman; Joe Gagliotta, sophomore; Mike Gatton, junior; and Tony Rosich, senior. The chairman of the committee is Paul Andorfer, Student Council vice-president.

Murray plans to revive council

Joseph M. Murray, a junior history and political science major from Troy, N. Y., is a candidate for president of the Student Council.

Murray lists an extensive background of high school activities, both academic and governmental. At St. Joe he has a 3.3 cumulative index, is a member of Phi Eta Sigma and Delta Epsilon Sigma honor societies, is a member of Y.C.S. and the Pre-law club, and has been a Stuff columnist for two years.

It is Murray's belief that the previous Student Council has been somewhat lethargic, and has lulled the student body into a sense of complacency. It is his intention to revive the Council and to make it an effective, representative force of the student body. He has a comprehensive platform, but after checking all points with administration and council leaders, is convinced that all proposals can be accomplished through the combined efforts of Council and students working in harmony with the administration.

Murray believes that the Council can and should have an activity planned for each weekend. These, he says, would not have to be major events, but such things as informal jazz concerts or sports talks which would be both entertaining and inexpensive. In addition, he advocates at least one free date dance per semester, overnight trips to a football and a basketball game, assistance on a mixer from the larger social clubs, etc.

Under reorganization of the Council, Murray hopes to mold more effective Council committees, better communication between Council and both students and administration, and more delegation of authority by the president.

Murray also advocates such student services as pushing breakfast back to 8:30, having soph study hall begin at 10:00, having a day's break before finals, handling drinking permits more effectively, etc.

In summing up his campaign, Murray said, "I am not campaigning on what I have done in the past; rather, I am campaigning on what I consider of much more importance—what I can and will do in the future."

Three-way SC vice-presidency race features one soph, two juniors—Dore, Bishop, Kaminski

Mitchell (Mickey) Kaminski, a junior biology major from Chicago, Ill., is a candidate for vice-president of the Student Council.

In addition to considerable high school experience, Kaminski lists the following college activities as qualifications for office: 2.80 cumulative index; class officer; hall representative, prefect, Y.C.S., Chicago and Courier clubs, Digam-ma Kappa Lambda, band, track and wrestling.

MICKEY KAMINSKI

Kaminski's general platform is to see that action is promptly taken in satisfying the student body's academic, social and physical needs.

The candidate lists as an academic need the securing of a syllabus for each course listing the material to be covered and the dates of exams. A physical need is, for example, maintenance of effective heat during cold weather. A social need is for publication in advance of schedules of mixers, dances, etc.

Jim Bishop, a junior finance major from Crystal Lake, Ill., is a candidate for vice-president of the Student Council.

As a freshman, Bishop was a member of the dorm council at John Carroll University. Since he came to St. Joe, he has done a considerable amount of work with other candidates on the talent show.

Bishop's platform is simply to work with the other elected officers in a vigorous attempt to make the Student Council an efficient organization which will hear and voice student complaints and suggestions.

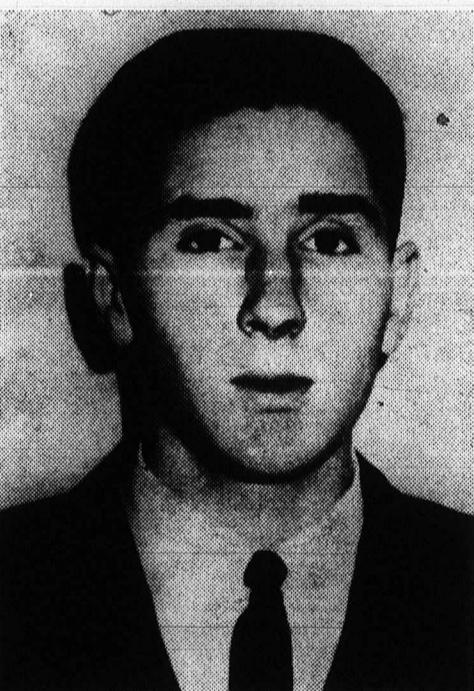

He said that the platforms of both presidential candidates were essentially sound, but that a few rule changes concerning leaving dances early and Sunday late permission should have some precedence. Bishop also considered the building of a strong social atmosphere around the new Student Union to be of utmost importance.

Open fund drive in Chicago area

Chicago-area kickoff meetings yesterday and today completed preparation for the initial phase of the college's first fund-raising drive.

Fr. Raphael H. Gross, president of the college, and Mr. Joseph Staples, advisor from Fund Fulfillment Corp., attended the meetings with alumni committee chairmen for Chicago. Alumni will be the first group approached in the campaign for funds to finance the college's expansion plans.

One of the main points of Dore's campaign is to revive the staging of a Homecoming parade next fall. This is a past program which has been dropped.

Dore prefers to explain his campaign ideas to each student individually.

Careful consideration needed in judging council candidates

Last year, for the first time, STUFF advocated the election of a chosen candidate for the presidency of the Student Council. A difference of opinion among the editors prevents us from following that procedure this year. However, we do wish to offer several ideas for your consideration next Thursday.

The annual Student Council election marks the opening of a short period during which nine students will be placed in positions of special trust by their fellow students. These nine students, the four Council officers, the four class presidents and the inter-club chairman, will be charged with the responsibility of managing some $20,000 of our money and of planning much of the non-academic activity of one year of our college careers. The policies they make will affect us both individually and as a community.

As the student body grows, the responsibilities of the Student Council become more weighty. And with the opening sometime next year of the new Student Union building, the duties of the Council will be redoubled. Thus it is of greater concern than ever that the officers chosen this year be equal to the tasks of their offices.

As of this writing, 11 students have declared their candidacy for Student Council office. This fact is encouraging in that the number is four larger than last year's turnout. All the candidates possess some qualities needed for the offices they seek; all, by virtue of the good will they have shown in running, deserve our careful consideration.

The four winners from this year's group will replace a Council which has been referred to as everything from "a tool of the administration" to "a goon squad." While this year's Council may not have been everything we had hoped, it has produced a record of considerable achievement and of considerably less anti-student action than charged. Those who criticize must remember that these men were elected by the student body, and were thus entrusted with the very duties described above. In selecting officers for next year the students would do well to consider carefully, on the basis of past results,

Support of lecture series recognized

Dear Editor,

I regret to announce that a lack of funds, plus the scarcity of available time the rest of this year, will make another presentation by the Visiting Author Program impossible. We had hoped to stage a fourth lecture, but will be unable to do so.

I would like to point out, however, that we consider this first year of the program a success, and hope that it will continue in the future.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank you for the fine publicity STUFF accorded the program. I would also like to extend my thanks to all others who contributed to the success of the program.

Sincerely,

Fr. John Klopke

Thinking Men Prefer

By STEVE LIGDA

With the Spring comes the annual event which stirs more student interest than any other single happening of the school year. This is, of course, the Student Council election. It is the annual opportunity for the student body as an organized group to express their opinions regarding the merits and qualifications of the various candidates seeking the Council offices.

As would be expected, the candidates showing the most desirable qualities possess the greatest assurance of election.

What then are the qualities that the student body consider most desirable when marking their ballot to select their leaders for the coming year. To find the answer, the question asked this week was, "What do you consider the three most desirable qualities of a Student Council candidate?"

Norm Netko, senior, Chicago, Illinois.

"The greatest service that any potential officer might perform for the student body would be to formulate a set of definite aims and objectives based upon a thorough study of the successes and failures of the previous year's Student Council. This would replace the promises of vague generalities that recur year after year and fail year after year. He should be popular with both the faculty and student body and merit the respect of both. Lastly he should have the ability to think clearly and to effectively communicate his ideas that the voters might know exactly what he stands for."

Phil Kummerer, senior, Chicago, Illinois.

"The Student Council candidate who would possess the most desirable qualities would very closely approximate the following. First of all, he would have more than a normal amount of enthusiasm to work and persevere to reach his goals. Next, he would possess a sense of character and loyalty in sincerely representing the interests of the student body to the best of his ability. Last of all, he would possess a quality not easy to find in potential candidates. This quality is a thoroughness and foresight in bringing about a harmony between the college administration and the student body."

Dave O'Connor, junior, Port Huron, Mich.

"Among the most important qualities or attributes of a Student Council officer, I would select these. First of all, he should be a leader and have the ability to lead an organized student body. Next, he should be industrious and be willing to work to get the job done. Lastly and of most importance, he should have the interests of the student body at heart because these are the voters who in electing him have placed their trust in him to fairly represent their best interests."

Jim McGill, junior, Port Huron, Mich.

"There are many desirable qualities that a Student Council officer should possess, but I believe these to be of prime importance. First in my mind would come not only the ability but the willingness to write well are helpful qualities the secretary should possess.

The treasurer must be a person of especially serious-minded and honest nature. He must administer all Council funds, keep all financial records, and be accountable to the Council for all transactions he makes. This office requires a thorough knowledge of financial matters and, like all the offices, a willingness to work hard for little recognition.

The candidates have been visiting, and will continue to visit the rooms of all students. Please keep in mind the serious obligations you will be placing on four of these students, and consider their words carefully. Decide on the basis of personality, ideas, experience and the particular needs of the offices. Vote for the candidates of your own conscientious choice. And, most of all, lend your full support to those who are elected, be they your choice or not. They will need it.

work and fulfill the duties of his elected office. He should also be a good and fair representative of the entire student body both on and off the campus. Lastly, he should have the courage and fortitude to stand up and represent the interests of the students who have elected him."

Rich Stefanich, sophomore, Joliet, Illinois.

"What I would consider the most important quality of a Student Council officer would be honesty insofar as he makes only those promises which are within the realm of realization and then attempts to the best of his ability to fill these promises after his election. Next in importance would be his personality and ability to get along with people both on and off campus. Finally, he should possess the experience of leadership and the ability to maintain good grades both before and during his tenure of office."

Paul Lothrop, sophomore, Chicago, Illinois.

"I would consider individualism, the making of his own decisions and reliance upon them, as the most important quality to look for. Next, a sense of responsibility concerning the duties of his office, or in other words, a "take charge" attitude towards his duties would be very desirable. Finally, a sense of creativeness and ability to MAKE new opportunities for variety during the school year would sum up the most desirous qualities of a Council officer."

Rudy Petrila, freshman, Ft. Wayne, Ind.

"The most important quality, I would consider to be honesty in making and fulfilling the candidate's campaign promises to the student body. Next would come the ability to lead the students in an organized manner, finally he should have the interests of the students foremost in his mind, and seek to fill those interests."

Spring grid game ends in 6-6 tie; Dwyer satisfied as workouts end

Quarterback Denny Anderson searches for an opening as he carries the ball in last Saturday's intra-squad game. Two units of springtime Pumas tied 6-6 in the annual contest, marking the end of spring practice.

By CHARLES J. SCHUTTROW

Quarterback Denny Anderson and end Terry Isselhard combined on a 64-yard pass and run in the closing seconds of the fourth quarter Saturday, Mar. 31, to give the Reds a 6-6 tie with the Whites in the annual spring football game at St. Joseph's field.

Halfback Phil Zera had scored two minutes earlier to give the Whites a 6-0 lead following three scoreless quarters.

The game, which excluded kickoffs and punts, was divided into four 15-minute quarters. The Red and White units were chosen from the Pumas' spring football roster in a draft by the student coaches of both squads.

The first quarter was highlighted by a 71-yard Red drive to the White nine-yard line behind the consistent running of fullback Tom McGinty and halfbacks Larry Lennon and Dennis Houlihan.

The Red threat ended when Anderson, attempting to pass, was hit, and fumbled, the Whites recovering on the 23.

In the second quarter the Whites drove 59 yards to the Red three behind a steady ground game featuring the running of Zera, Ron Dostal, Don Bian, and Jim Betz.

On a third and goal play, Dostal was trapped behind the line of scrimmage and threw a desperation pass to Betz in the end zone, but the play was nullified by a penalty.

Near the close of the third quarter the Reds drove 35 yards to the White 17 before losing the ball on a fumbled lateral. Early in the final quarter, the Reds drove again, this time to the White seven, where a fourth down end sweep failed.

Mid-way in the quarter guard Ron Boguski of the White team intercepted a Dick Sigler pass and returned five yards to the White 48.

Following a first down at the Red 40, White team quarterback Dave Ogren connected with end Dave O'Connor on a 30-yard pass play to put the ball on the Red 10. On successive line plunges, Zera gained four, Bian got five more, and Zera plunged the final yard for the game's first score.

Ogren's roll-out pass attempt to O'Connor for the two-point conversion failed and the Whites led, 6-0.

With time running out, the Reds drove 70 yards for a score with the Anderson-Isselhard pass play covering the final 64 yards. Houlihan's line plunge on an attempted two-point conversion failed as the game ended with the score 6-6.

The Whites gained 184 yards on the ground and 74 passing for a 258 total while the Reds gained 151 rushing and 83 in the air for a 234 total.

Zera led all ground gainers with 86 yards in 17 carries while McGinty ranked second with 49 yards in 12 carries. Anderson led all passers with 83 yards and Ogren was next with 74.

"I was very pleased with the play," commented head coach Ed Dwyer following the game. "The hitting was hard and sharp, the defense looked good considering the relative shortage of time we have worked with it, and the passing appeared much improved over last fall."

Dwyer also expressed satisfaction over the ball-control ability demonstrated by both squads.

Tennis team opens Friday

The St. Joe tennis team, now in its third season of revival, is being coached this season by junior John Sorg. For the first three weeks of practice Sorg has been reviewing the basic rules and stressing fundamental drills with his 11 varsity netters.

Sorg stated that the team has advanced further than last year's squad in preparation for the coming season. This may be one of the reasons why the coach is optimistic about this year's team. However, he realizes that the team is for the most part inexperienced.

The netters will open competition tomorrow with a match against Butler. Saturday they play at Marian, and Monday at DePaul university in Chicago. Sorg said that in the early matches he will be seeking to uncover each man's potentialities.

Members of the tennis team are Bill Currie, John Cates, Bob DuBois, Bob L'Heureux, Charles Horn, John Luxem, Don Machrowicz, Tim Nash, Dan Sorg, Tony Vasek and Tom Miller.

Pumas through a six-inning intra-squad game Saturday on their home diamond. Team "A" defeated team "B" 4-2.

"The hitting looked good in several spots," said Merki, "and the pitching was particularly impressive." Merki expressed particular satisfaction with the fine control exhibited by his pitchers.

The Pumas play DePauw here Saturday, and travel to Ball State next Wednesday.

Helpers needed by CP's in preparation for 'Hasty Heart'

All students interested in helping with the Columbian Players' May 3 & 4 presentation of John Patrick's "The Hasty Heart" are urged to join now, Mr. Willard Walsh, director of the project, announced this week.

Aid is needed in several departments, Mr. Walsh announced. Ken Van Kampen, stage crew chief, needs assistance in erecting the set shown in last week's Stuff. In addition, a prop committee is needed to gather necessary items from pillow cases to a bagpipe.

Altogether some 30 students will be needed, Mr. Walsh said. Those interested are urged to see Mr. Walsh in his office any day, or to come to the theatre during rehearsals on Monday, Tuesday or Thursday evenings.

Intramural Scoreboard Gaelics reign as IM champs

By JIM TRAINOR

After many weeks of hectic play, a new I.M. basketball champion has been crowned. The Gallagher Gaelics, as predicted, won in fine style. In winning, the Gaelics are the first sophomore team to do so in recent years.

The final game, played last Wednesday night, sported the only two undefeated teams in I.M. play. Very seldom is the final game of the I.M. basketball tournament played between two undefeated teams. The Gaelics were 15-0 and the Vigilantes of Gaspar hall were 19-0.

Both teams won their semi-finals with relative ease. The Gaelics trounced the West Seifert Spartans, 65-43, while the Vigilantes provided a mild upset in beating the Washburn Prefects, 41-33.

Led by Ray Connelly's 15 points, along with 14 and 13 point contributions by Dick Schreiber and John O'Reilly, the Gaelics had little difficulty in subduing the Vigilantes. The final score was 60-45.

Of course, Big Joe "the henchman" Hula added his share by pouring in eight points. Mark Perrigo (6), Phil Zera (3) and Don Machrowicz (2) provided the rest of the scoring.

This writer expected the game to be a little closer. After all, the Vigilantes sported the school's best record, 19-0. Coach Luther Howard explained that the lopsided score by saying, "the boys just choked in the first half, that's all." The Vigilantes were down at the end of the first half, 34-15.

The final game might have been a little closer had the Prefects beaten the Vigilantes, as many believed they would. During the regular season the Gaelics nipped the Prefects by two points in overtime. Furthermore, the Prefects were steadily improving since the mid-season firing of Coach Bill Braunbeck and the installation of the dual coaching staff of Jim O'Donnell and "Beaver" Marcinek.

One interesting fact about the tournament was that it tended to reveal a possible weakness of division B of the Upperclass league. The champion Noll Guzzlers were crushed by the Prefects, 59-40, in their first game. The Bennett Celtics likewise failed to survive the first round of the tourney as they were edged by the Whitehouse Wazooz, 41-40.

The division B runner-up Halas Bears survived the first round. However, they were edged by the Washburn Prefects 48-46, blowing an eight point lead in the final minutes of the game.

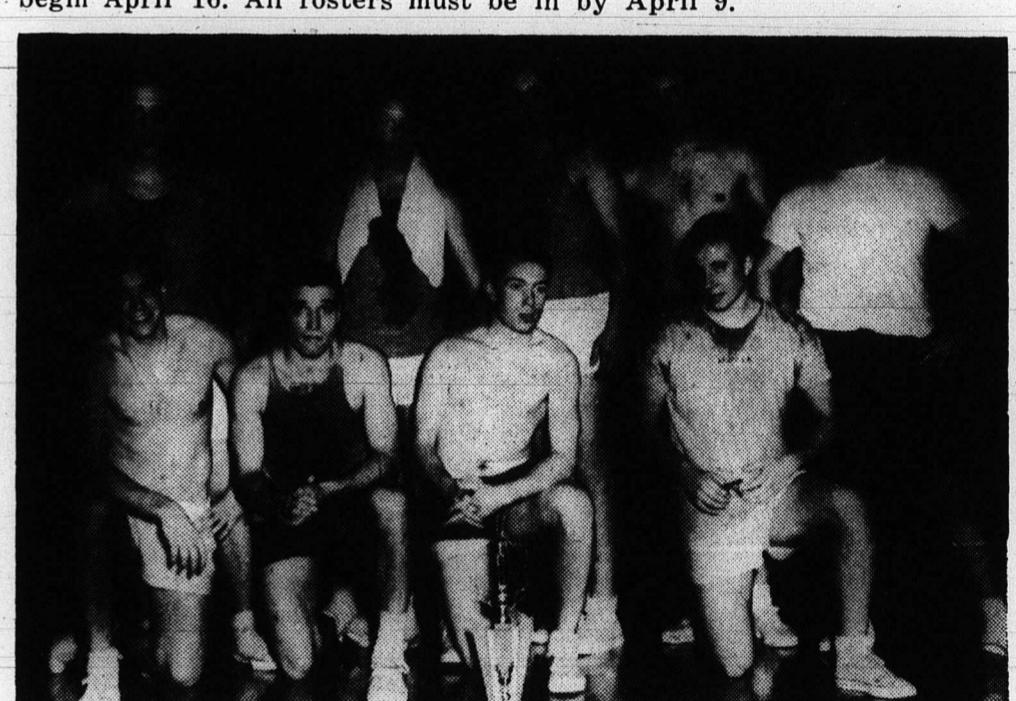

All in all, the tournament provided some interesting competition. It was criticized by those who thought that all teams should have been represented. It is significant that most of the gripes came from teams who forfeited at least one game during the regular season.

The fact that all games were played on the main court appealed to most of the teams, especially the fast-breaking ones.

Overall, the tournament proved interesting to the student body, which is attested to by the relatively large attendance at the games. Some 250 fans witnessed the final game.

Seventy-eight contestants registered for the I.M. checker tournament. Word has it that Father Reuve was declared ineligible because of his faculty member status.

Coach Merki has announced that I.M. softball competition will begin April 16. All rosters must be in by April 9.

Campaign . . .

describing the campaign will be sent to all alumni. The committee members will then contact the alumni soliciting their contributions.

Plans call for similar appeals to various other groups associated with St. Joseph's once the alumni phase is well under way.

Lake county alumni leaders met with officials of the campaign on Mar. 28. During the past month numerous other meetings have been held with alumni committeemen in various locations throughout the midwest, as St. Joseph's prepares for the first time to seek capital gifts from outside sources.

The campaign, "The St. Joseph's College Diamond Jubilee Fund," is aimed at raising $600,000 toward the costs of the new student center and faculty residence now being erected, plus as much money as possible to be used for future expansion expenses.

Fr. John Lefko, director of development, is chairman of the drive and Fr. Donald Ballman is his assistant.

Entries for secretary, treasurer races listed

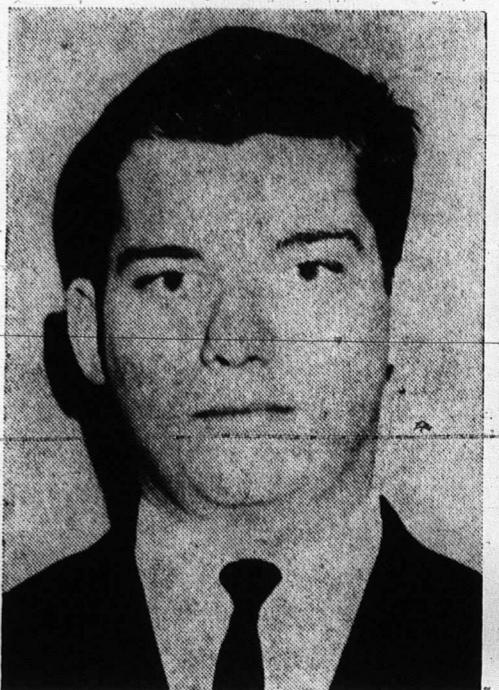

FRANK HARMON

JOHN CATES

LEN BARA

BILL THOMA

Frank Harmon, a sophomore political science major from Chicago, Ill., is a candidate for secretary of the Student Council.

Harmon feels that Student Council officers should have the interest of the entire school in mind. He feels that his campus activities qualify him on this point—he has been a class officer and a member of the Chicago, Pre-law, Don Bosco and Courier clubs and the Y.C.S.

There are three main points in Harmon's platform:

1). That a full-time social chairman is needed to coordinate a good social program for an expanding student body.

2). That the council should facilitate discussion of campus problems by inaugurating round tables, debates and discussions, and by reviving the "coffee-hour."

3). That the council would retain more normal contact with and interest in the whole student body by stressing the importance of the hall representatives.

Harmon says, "I firmly believe that a Student Council, during both semesters of its life, should be concerned not merely with 'curing crises,' but with active, positive leadership."

Dave Stark, a junior accounting and finance major from Olympia Fields, Ill., is a candidate for secretary of the Student Council.

"In regard to Council activities," Stark said, "I would like to see a closer relationship between the Student Council and the hall representatives, who are in theory the first link in the solution of student problems. I also believe that a better system of advertising our mixers would result in improved attendance and possibly the addition of some new schools."

Stark has been active in the past on various dance committees, and is at present chairman of the tuxedo committee for this year's prom. He has also participated in the accounting club, S.A.M., the Chicago club and Y.C.S.

John Cates, a sophomore English-journalism major from Detroit, Mich., is a candidate for treasurer of the Student Council.

Cates feels he is qualified for the office by virtue of his background in writing and by three years as representative to the student senate of his high school, University of Detroit high, Detroit, Mich.

At St. Joseph's Cates has been active as a member of the Stuff staff, the Detroit club and the hockey team of last year.

Cates is interested in providing efficient service in recording and publishing the minutes of Student Council meetings.

Leonard J. (Len) Bara, a junior accounting major from Chicago, Ill., is a candidate for treasurer of the Student Council.

Bara lists as his qualifications for office his experience in accounting, membership of the Council complaints committee this year, and three years' service as a hall representative.

Bara's platform consists of four main points.

1). To take the Council books home this summer and work out next year's budget, thus giving the council a clear picture of its financial status.

2). To initiate a system of automatic approval of all expenses under $25, and formal approval of all expenses in excess of $25.

3). To provide more frequent (quarterly) and more detailed financial statements for the information of the students.

4). To provide each class treasurer an operating petty cash fund for his class' minor expenses, thus leaving the Council treasurer free to handle more costly matters.

William A. (Bill) Thoma, a junior accounting major from Chicago, Ill., is a candidate for treasurer of the Student Council.

A main point of Thoma's platform is that the college needs better cheerleading at athletic contests. He pledges to remedy the situation if elected.

Thoma feels that his knowledge of accounting and other qualifications such as membership in Delta Epsilon Sigma make him the most qualified for the office of treasurer.

Also included in Thoma's platform is his pledge to make the Council a true Student's council, working with and for the students.

Chuck Kelley in secretary race

Chuck Kelley, a sophomore chemistry major from Akron, O., is running for the council secretarial post.

A member of Delta Epsilon and of the band, Kelley maintains that the secretary's job is the most important on the council next to that of the president. He says that, because the secretary is responsible for all correspondence, he is the key man in the arranging of student activities.

Kelley has promised that, if elected, he will immediately contact all big-name entertainers to insure good jazz concerts and dance bands next year.
